Gale has owned and operated three companies, including designing and producing a line of limited edition items which were sold internationally.

Gale produced several art shows for the City of Vista with 150 artists and raised several thousand for the preservation and maintenance of the city owned Rancho Adobe facility. In appreciation the mayor of Vista proclaimed Nov. 13, 1998 as "Gale Pruitt Day" in the City of Vista.

Gale's work has been in several art galleries as well as appearing at art shows. Her work was shown at Art-a-Fair in Laguna for four years.

Gale has designed and constructed stage settings and scenery for conventions and churches.

She has always had an interest in art but over the past ten years she has concentrated on sculpture. She attended college in Chico, CA and has attended various sculpture seminars and classes.

Gale has developed a unique ability to capture facial expressions and body language in her sculptures, which relate a statement or attitude. They are not just clay or bronze...they are saying something.

Gale was recently commissioned to create two bronze statues to be installed in the city of Escondido, CA. One 3/4 life size female bronze in a reclining position and one full size female bronze in a standing position.

Gale commissioned artist James T. Hubbell to design a new home. She and her husband have recently completed construction and officially moved-in on September 19, 2005. She loves sculpture and is creating many items, which are integrated into their home. She says, "I am actually living in a piece of sculpture".
